Post-Graduation Immigration Support Program

The Post-Graduation Immigration Support Program aims to support international graduates in Nova Scotia by providing instructional information on immigration programs and personalized immigration coaching.

To be eligible for an immigration advising session, individuals must:

- Have finished their studies at a post-secondary institution in Nova Scotia in the past year (between April 2020 to date)*;
- Possess a Post-Graduation Work Permit or proof of application for one; and
- Have a job or job offer from a Nova Scotian employer for a position based and taxed in the province.

* Graduation date requirement extended temporarily - the date is to be reviewed again in 2023.
